GLÆDELIG JUL MERRY CHRISTMAS

Perchs Pakhus

Perchs Pakhus lå dengang smukt placeret på Christianshavn i Overgaden Neden Vandet, hvor områdets gamle pakhuse og købmændsgårde stadig fortæller historien om Københavns maritime storhedstid. Christianshavn udviklede sig gennem 1700- og 1800-tallet til et vigtigt handelscentrum, tæt forbundet med havnen, skibsfarten og de internationale handelsruter til Asien.

I begyndelsen af 1800-tallet havde A.C. Perchs Thehandel til huse i pakhuset. Her blev te opbevaret og handlet i en periode, hvor varer som te, krydderier, silke og porcelæn blev stadig mere eftertragtede blandt Københavns borgerskab. Handlen med disse eksotiske varer hang tæt sammen med den omfattende søhandel, som blev drevet gennem Asiatisk Kompagni, der siden 1700-tallet havde spillet en central rolle i Danmarks handel med Kina og Østen.

Asiatisk Kompagni stod bag utallige store handelsrejser mellem København og asiatiske havnebyer og bragte varer hjem, som siden blev distribueret videre gennem købmænd og handelsvirksomheder i byen. Christianshavns pakhuse fungerede som naturlige lagre for disse kostbare varer, og området summede af aktivitet fra søfolk, handelsfolk og købmænd. Perchs tidlige virksomhed udsprang af denne internationale handelsverden, hvor te var blevet et symbol på både dannelse og velstand.

I 1835 flyttede Perchs Thehandel ind til Kronprinsensgade 5 i det indre København, hvor virksomheden fortsat holder til i dag. Den historiske butik er siden blevet et ikon for dansk thehistorie og håndværkstradition.

Perchs Pakhus er et levende minde om bydelen Christianshavns rolle i den globale handel og om forbindelsen mellem København og Asien og de varer, der formede byens handelsliv gennem flere århundreder.

Perchs Warehouse

Perchs Warehouse was beautifully situated on Christianshavn, on Overgaden Neden Vandet, where the district's old warehouses and merchant courtyards still tell the story of Copenhagen's maritime golden age. Throughout the 18th and 19th centuries, Christianshavn developed into an important commercial center, closely connected to the harbor, shipping, and the international trade routes to Asia.

In the early 19th century, A.C. Perch's Tea Shop was based in the warehouse. Tea was stored and traded here during a period when goods such as tea, spices, silk, and porcelain became increasingly sought after by Copenhagen's growing middle and upper classes. The trade in these exotic commodities was closely linked to the extensive maritime commerce conducted through the Asiatisk Kompagni, which had played a central role in Denmark's trade with China and the East since the 18th century.

The Asiatisk Kompagni organized countless major trading voyages between Copenhagen and Asian port cities, bringing back goods that were then distributed through merchants and trading houses throughout the city. The warehouses of Christianshavn served as natural storage facilities for these valuable commodities, and the area bustled with activity from sailors, traders, and merchants. Perch's early business emerged from this international trading environment, where tea had become a symbol of both refinement and prosperity.

In 1835, Perch's Tea Shop moved to 5 Kronprinsensgade in central Copenhagen, where the company remains located to this day. The historic shop has since become an icon of Danish tea culture and craftsmanship.

Perchs Warehouse stands as a living reminder of Christianshavn's role in global trade and of the connection between Copenhagen and Asia, as well as the goods that shaped the city's commercial life over several centuries.

A.C. PERCH'S THEHANDEL 1835

QUALITY AND TRADITION SINCE 1835

At the end of the 17th century, tea had become one of the most significant traded goods in Denmark. Business thrived along the historic quays of Christianshavn in the heart of Copenhagen, where merchants established themselves and sourced their goods from docking ships.

As one of Copenhagen's oldest businesses, A.C. Perch's Thehandel has earned a unique place in Danish history. For seven generations and under the reign of eight monarchs, Perch's has been dedicated to providing high-quality tea since opening its first shop in Kronprinsensgade in 1835.

From the very beginning, Perch's mission has been to offer the finest teas from around the world – a commitment that is still our most important task.

As of today, Perch's offers more than 150 varieties of tea from their physical shops in Copenhagen, CPH Airport, Aarhus, Odense, Stockholm and Oslo. We take great pride in having served seven generations with high-quality tea, and for many years, A.C. Perch's Thehandel has been a purveyor to the Danish royal family.

Whether you enjoy our tea at home or in one of our five Tea Rooms across Denmark, Sweden, and Norway, we look forward to serving you a wonderful cup of tea.
